There is very little information that can be found on the Feitleberg family. The infant Feitleberg was interred at the Leadville Hebrew Cemetery in 1884, listed as two months old, with a simple wooden marker bearing no more information than the name.<sup>1</sup> Listed in the 1884 Leadville city directory is what seems to be the misspelled name of Nachman Fetleberg.<sup>2</sup> It is quite likely that this was the head of the Feitleberg family whose time in Leadville was short. He appeared, as a laborer, only once in the city directories. Nachman appears in one more location, in the Carbonate Chronicle’s June 21, 1884 “List of Letters” under yet another alternative spelling as N. Feitelberg.<sup>3</sup>
